“ Christy, You, me, Joanne and Maria were the little team that could, but we all were family and not just co-workers. Having you in my life and as a close friend was such a blessing. You meant more to me than you will ever know. Trying to find the right words to sum up how much of an amazing person you are is impossible for no words could ever do you justice. I still remember the day that we met like it were just yesterday. You didn't hesitate to include me in your dinner plans and you didn't judge me for being the pickiest eater ever when we split a pizza. You also didn't judge that I was wearing a bright green TNT sweatshirt and that the guacamole that I ordered matched it . That is who you were, you were never judging, and you always put others first. You were the most unselfish person that I know and no matter the situation you always looked for the good. You loved your family, friends, church family and God with everything that you had. I find myself having complete breakdowns and crying often because the pain of knowing you are not a phone call away is heartbreaking. However, I am crying for myself, for your family and for your friends I am not crying for you because I know where you are. You and I have had many talks about the Lord and I know you were saved and are spending ever lasting life with our Savior. I know we will see each other again and until that day you will be in my heart. I love you.
