“ I remember when he came for a visit and asked me if I would press his Navel uniform. I had no idea where all of the creases were to be placed so Dennis stood next to me and gave me instructions on how to do it. I was the only family member that owned an ironing board, (I'm giving my age away!) and I pressed that uniform with such admiration and pride. My brother always worried about others and never had a negative thing to say about anyone. He will be missed.
