“ Today marks one month since I said goodbye to my best friend, my father, my guiding light. The ache of missing you is intense. I visit you often, sitting in quiet conversation, wondering if somehow, in some way, my words reach you. I often find myself imagining what the afterlife must look like for you. I can't wait for the day we reunite, so I can wrap my arms around you and give you the biggest hug. My heart feels shattered without you here. I wish you could have stayed just a little longer, but I know the Lord called you home. Your absence has left a void in my life that feels impossible to fill.

If I could write a story about my dad, it would be the greatest tale ever told—a story of kindness, patience, and a heart of gold. You taught me to dream big and never give up. Not a day goes by that I don't think of you. I often marvel at how unfair it seems that life took the most beautiful soul from us. If love could keep us alive, you would have lived forever.

I find myself wanting to carry on the things you didn't have time to finish. Simple joys, like learning to play the guitar, remind me of the moments you lost. I miss our birthday celebrations, the crazy pool parties where the police would inevitably show up because we all got too loud and rowdy, and those holiday seasons when I struggled to pick the perfect gift for you—because you never told us what you wanted! I miss our hunting trips, where we took turns trying to nap in the woods, achieving very little but laughter and memories.

I look at your pictures every day, and while they're meant to bring me comfort, they sometimes feel like a dagger to my heart, a reminder of the pain of your absence. I'm sorry for the silly things I did that caused you stress—like being a brat, freezing my pipes during that ice storm (sorry about that!), and repeatedly calling you to rescue me when my car broke down. I'm sure you've not forgotten the time I got a flat tire an hour and a half from home—oh, how you always came to my rescue without hesitation!

Thank you for being my father, for teaching me how to navigate adulthood, to be independent, to be kind, and to be selfless. Your lessons and love will always be a part of me. Until we meet again, I carry you with me in every heartbeat.

“ Knowing Justin for over 30 years, he taught me to not let battles in life get you down, be kind to everyone you meet, and remain true to yourself always. He never met a stranger, would do anything for others and always knew how to brighten someone's day. He will be missed by so many. Prayers go out to loved ones and may they receive comfort and peace during this next chapter without Justin. Matthew 11:28 Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest.

“ He was the 1st one that was easiest to warm upto at work, the friendliest, the kindest & the infectious smile.

If ya didn't know Justin, ya didn't know the good graces of humanity. Humorous but brave & definitively left "Massive" shoes to fill. The mold was truly broken with my favorite bartender. Mr. Beinlein never failed to be the gift that jus kept on giving. Thank you tons Justin!!!
