“ Lawrence did a check in with me from time to time to see how I was doing. When all that ice was on he'd check to see if I had electric. We checked back and forth on one another. He always told me how blessed he was to have Kim and his son there. It felt nice to have someone think about Caitie and I here in that mess. I felt so cut off from the world during that mess. He helped me with getting past my brother David's death. He shared memories of him with me. Lawrence was kind hearted and seemed to know when I needed to just have a voice to hear. I always looked forward to his messages and his humor. He will be missed.
