“ Uncle Harry and Aunt Marilyn were my godparents, married just a year before I was born. Aunt Marilyn was the one present at m baptism because Uncle Harry was in the military in Korea at that time. They were always special to me. Aunt Marilyn remembered every one of my young birthdays often sending a purse, something no one else ever gave me. (I still remember this little white fur purse that was so special to me.) I always thought of Marilyn as beautiful and gracious. And full of life and fun. I have missed seeing her since my mom died. She and Mom and Uncle John got together regularly to play pinocle and eat out. Thank God for her long, active, loving life.
