As a young man, I would occasionally help Norman & his sons haul hay. Him Joann and the whole family were the nicest, most down-to-earth people I've ever met. Norman had a great sense of humor, which he needed because all his hay hauling equipment was always breaking down. My condolences to the family, he was a good man. He is at peace, in heaven, with Joann and Steven.

“ I will always remember Uncle Norman as a fun uncle with a unique sense of humor. He really enjoyed life. My mom was best friends with Uncle Norman's wife for many years and we would visit their farm from time to time. He was always such a hard worker. I will forever appreciate and cherish the book he wrote that included our family history and stories of hard life on the farm and funny stories of his memories he wished to share. I'd love to do that too for my family. He put a lot of work and thought into that book he published. In more recent years I noticed a big change at a niece's wedding that his mind was not what it once was when I tried to joke with him. I visited him several times in the nursing home and cherished my time with him there. The last time I attempted to visit, he was out visiting someone else and not home. I wish I had one more visit! That was one funny person with a lot of knowledge and heart he took with him. I will see you on the other side, Uncle Norman.
