“ I have so many, many wonderful memories of Virginia sitting with Kenny at my kitchen table for our weekly tutoring sessions. She wanted Kenny to have the opportunity to learn to read so that he could study the catechism, be confirmed, and take communion. Originally I thought I was Kenny's teacher, but I quickly came to understand that Virginia and Kenny were my soft-spoken teachers, and I was the student with much to learn! Over the course of about three years, Kenny did, indeed, learn to read and write, and gave himself fully to study of the catechism. He and Virginia already had the assurance of their faith; what they needed, what they gave us all, was the humility to understand that God looks on the heart and knows true believers even when they are disguised in bodies that differ from others around us. The examination, confession, and communion that took place in a private confirmation ceremony at Grace Lutheran Church in Uniontown will always stand out as a beautiful memory to me, made possible by Walter and Virginia, and Kenny with their believing hearts, their faith and love. Thank you Virginia.
